ALLIES ANXIOUSLY AWAIT OUR AIR AID, SAYS MAJ. TULASNE

The allies are anxiously waiting the aid of the American air fleet, which, if it comes in time, will give the allies the mastery of the air, and with it complete victory, according to Major Joseph Tulasne head of the French commission on aviation.

"At present the allies are preparing to profit by the fall which the winter rains will cause in the air," says Major Tulasne.

"Large fleets of well-armed and equipped planes are being organized for the spring of 1918."

Spirited Battles in 1917.

"The summer of 1917 has been marked by very spirited battles for the supremacy of the air. Although our losses have been great, those of our enemies have been still greater."

"The American fleet must come as soon as possible, for the supremacy of the air for 1918 will be decided in the battles of the early spring months. Your planes will be there if your industries only work quickly enough."

"American bombing squadrons also will contribute greatly to success. The French have been making bombing raids since 1915. In that year our raid of reprisal on Karlsruhe, by twenty bombing planes, killed and wounded 200 persons, and for many months stopped the German bombing of French towns. This year the Germans have been busy again bombing our defenseless towns."

U. S. Urged by French.
"At the request of the French government, the Government of the United States has decided to organize a powerful bombing fleet. This fleet, like the battle fleet, must be ready for action early in the spring."

"Then a systematic bombardment of the open German cities carried on ruthlessly day and night without interruption—in answer to the bombardments the Germans have been carrying on for the last three years in contravention of all laws of warfare—will contribute immensely to destroy the morale of the German people and to hasten an honorable peace."

CHILDREN EMPTY PENNY BANKS TO AID SMOKE FUND

The children are the most enthusiastic givers to The Washington Times' Tobacco Fund, and to them it means real sacrifice. They have no fat pay checks to take it out of and every penny they give means that they forfeit some pleasures of their own in order that Uncle Sam's boys may have the solace of a smoke.

Little Bernice E. Freedy, four years old, of 1102 D street southeast, brought in her savings bank today and dumped its contents upon The Times' counter. Pennies for the most part it contained, the savings of many a weary month. The total of her self-denial was $1.25, and little Bernice was all smiles to think it was so much.

Five boys, Paul Chisman, Fred Seaton, George Allen, James Jamison, and Earl Merryman, have organized a "Jolly Five Club," of which each member contributes 5 cents a week to The Times' fund.

Genevieve Mines, of 829 Eighth street northeast, is a little girl who makes 25 cents a week by helping her aunt. This week she turned it all over to the Smoke Fund.

One young woman, who wishes she could give a thousand, turns in $1 out of a weekly salary of $7.

Contributions today to The Washington Times' Tobacco Fund:

CLAMP ON FOOD GOUGERS TIGHTENS IN NATION NOV. 1

The Government will take its first big smash at retail food prices when it assumes absolute control of twenty basic food products Thursday.

This control will take the form of a licensing system under the food administration. Food Administrator Hoover expects to effect material reductions in the retail prices of the foods involved, by the first of the year. He hopes to do this by eliminating waste and excess profits in the import, manufacture, storage and distribution of the twenty products.

Put Up To Public.
His plan is to see that these foods reach the small retailer at reasonable prices, tell the public what the dealers paid for the goods, and depend on the public to prevent retailers charging more than a fair profit.

This, the food administrator pointed out today, is the only way the problem can be met, as the food control law does not give Government jurisdiction over retailers doing less than $100,000 of business annually.

Retailers doing that much business will be licensed and controlled. All meat packers, cold storage men, millers, canners, grain dealers, will have to get a Government license before Nov. 1 or quit business.

The food administration will see that all producers have an outlet and ready market for their products; that all manipulation and speculation in these foods is stopped at once, that there is no hoarding of supplies, that there is no unfair or unreasonable profits anywhere along the line.

Penalties For Offenders.
Licensed men or firms caught conspiring to prevent enforcement of the food control law will be subject to $10,000 fine or imprisonment for two years or both.

Licensed men or firms caught manipulating the market, speculating, hoarding or profiteering, will be subject to $5,000 fine, or two years in prison, or both.

The commodities affected include: Wheat, barley, oats, corn, rye, rice, and all their by-products; beans, peas, cottonseed, peanuts, soy beans and all by-products; oleomargarine and all dairy products, and eggs; fish, fresh fruits, vegetables, canned and dried products of all kinds; meats, sugar, syrups.

COAL CARDS IN VOGUE IN CHICAGO TODAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—"Coal cards" made their appearance in Chicago today.

Every purchaser of coal hereafter will be required to show a card entitling him to the amount of coal desired, the amount on hand at the time the application is made, and other facts. Both dealers and purchasers will be held responsible for any fraud in these statements.

The cards are a part of the State fuel administrator's plan to prevent hoarding of coal at a time when a shortage is threatened.

WINS DIVORCE AFTER FIFTEEN-YEAR SUIT

After fifteen years Mrs. Georgiana Edwards today has a divorce from Channing M. Edwards, the decree being granted by Justice Hitz of the District Supreme Court yesterday.

The suit was commenced against the husband in 1902, when he was a member of the Washington police department.

In the petition the wife alleged that her husband notified the grocer and merchant that he would not be responsible for any debts contracted by his wife. The wife was represented by Attorney Joe Shillington.

COLLEGE OF LAW ELECTS.
The class of 1919 of Washington College of Law has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mattie A. Hurner, of New Hampshire; vice president, Clarence Ellis, of Missouri; secretary, Fred L. Woodruff, of New York; treasurer, Ma. W. W. Jones, of Virginia. This class will have charge of the annual banquet and other social functions of the college.

U-BOAT SINKINGS MAY INCREASE IN WINTER

Because climatic conditions in winter are more favorable to the submarine, loss of tonnage on the high seas will increase with the coming of cold weather is the opinion today of Wesley Frost, former American consul to Queenstown.

"Summer months give the destroyer the advantage, but winter favors the submarine," said Mr. Frost in his address before members of the Home Club, in the auditorium of the Department of the Interior last night. The cruelties of German submarine warfare were vividly described. Mr. Frost has been granted leave by the State Department to make a series of lectures throughout the country.

SWIFT SENDS LAWYER TO PLEAD FOR COUNT

C. V. Yeader, general counsel for Swift & Co., is reported to have been in Washington in the interests of Count James Minotto, the Italian nobleman, son-in-law of Louis F. Swift, the Chicago millionaire. The count is threatened with deportation, following an investigation into his record by the Navy intelligence department.

Count Minotto, according to the evidence discovered by the Government, has been on intimate terms with certain Germans, who more recently came into notoriety in matters of international intrigue. One such Count Luxemburg. The count is also said to have visited Von Bernstorff. The investigation of his record followed his application for a post in the Navy Intelligence Bureau.

Though he says he is an Italian citizen, he admits having been born in Germany.

CIVIL SERVICE TEST TODAY.
The first civil service examination in the new permanent quarters at the old high school building, Seventh and O streets northwest, which were established to accommodate the overflow from the Civil Service Commission at 1724 F street, will be held today, when a class of eighty stenographer and typewriter candidates will be examined. The main auditorium and three class rooms will be at the disposal of the commission.

Help! Shipping Board In Distress! Flag on Office Upside Down

The unusual sight of an American flag flying upside down, and on a Government building at that, caused many persons to pause in the rain this morning and comment on the spectacle.

The much talked of flag was on the building at 1315 F street, in which the United States shipping board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation are housed. And a flag flown upside down is a signal of distress!

The sight of Old Glory with the Union at the bottom, unobserved some patriot, who went to the ninth floor of the building and put the chief clerk wise. The night watchman had made a slight mistake, it was said. Later he rectified it.

Fairview, N. J.,
August 28, 1917.

Editor Hudson Observer:
Dear Sir—About six years ago I was in the U. S. Navy, aboard the Montana which was detailed to Turkish waters. We expected our stay to be about a month or two.

At the end of three months our commanders began to run low and at the end of four months we were buying Bull Durham at 25 cents a sack from the end of our month's stay. It was not long before the boys who had taken a good supply in time. It was not long before we could not buy Bull Durham at any price.

Although we could have the real Bull Durham at 20 for 10 cents, we would rather give 50 cents for a pack of Bull Durham smoke.

I know from experience that the tobacco you send to Europe will be welcomed by every American man. So I am sending you $1.00 to you so that the soldiers and sailors will not worry for the want of the "makin's".

Yours truly,
